

Polyester-urethanes are particularly suited for the world market place because uretdione curing agents (blocking agent free) can be used to cure hydroxyl polyesters. These products provide a non-emissive alternative to the market place. Today's world also seeks products which have a low order of toxicity. Polyester-urethane powder coatings meet this challenge.